TABLE OF PLENTY FOOD PANTRY NEWS: For the month of June we served 334 people in 97 households. Thank you so very much for all the hard work and help from our parishioners! It takes a village ☺

Dear Fellow Parishioners,

In today's gospel reading, it is the neighbors and friends of Jesus' family who have trouble coping with him. They admit that his teaching demonstrates considerable wisdom. They also acknowledge his extraordinary power as a healer. From their perspective, however, something doesn't add up. After all, he is basically just one of them.

Jesus' hometown people don't simply puzzle over his extraordinary powers. They are actually 'scandalized' by him. He experiences their response as rejection and tells them how he feels. In so doing, he identifies himself with the rejected prophets of old. The townspeople's lack of faith renders the prophet Jesus powerless: according to the Markan author, he is simply unable to perform any mighty deeds among them. There is a hint in the text, however, that some few do have faith: 'he cured a few sick people by laying his hands on them'. Mark's gospel shows again and again that it is always possible to stand out from the crowd-for better or for worse.

At times, we may be like Jesus, bringing the wisdom and power of God to 'friends' who refuse to listen. Sometimes, we may be like the few who come in faith and experience the healing power of Jesus. At other times, we may replicate the behavior of the opponents of Jesus. We probably should all look into ourselves from time to time in order to check whether or not we are mirroring the behavior of the people of Jesus' home town. To refuse to see the goodness in another may have something to do with a lack of faith and may actually stymie the power of God at work in their lives.

POPE FRANCIS' JULY PRAYER INTENTION: That priests, who experience fatigue and loneliness in their pastoral work, may find help and comfort in their intimacy with the Lord and in their friendship with their brother priests.

FAMILY PERSPECTIVES: Follow the example of Jesus in today's Gospel. Just as His neighbors took offense at Him when He taught the Gospel, expect your neighbors to do the same. This opposition did not stop Jesus – nor should it stop us.
